AUSSIE GREEN TECHNOLOGY INITIATIVES ACROSS USA

Melbourne, Australia, 22 April 2008, Green Invest Limited, (ASX:GNV), reports that the expansion of the GreenPlumbers business into the USA has commenced. The GreenPlumbers USA network is an initiative of Green Invest Ltd, a leading Australian environmental products and installation business.

After months of planning, GreenPlumbers USA is now open for business with the first US licensees coming onboard. According to CEO of GreenPlumbers, Mr Ian McMillan, the move to the US is providing to be very exciting. "With a market of 438,000 plumbers across the US, we are targeting the best to join our GreenPlumbers licensing program. The initial responses are living up to expectation and the licensing revenue streams we've been expecting are already beginning," said Ian.

"Using the experience of our start-up of GreenPlumbers Australia several years ago, the program has already gained high level community and Government support across the US, including recognition from Californian Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger," added Ian.

Green Invest Limited listed on the ASX in February 2008 and comprises two No. 1 Australian businesses, Green Plumbers and NextGen, the largest carbon trader in Australia.

The GreenPlumbers program has two stages. Plumbers are initially trained in water saving practices and then invited to become a licensee in a national network. GreenPlumbers USA training was launched late 2007 and is well on its way to training 4,000 plumbers in 100 workshops across America this year.

"Australian water saving and energy efficiency technology is recognised as world leading. The GreenPlumbers program and its associated training is being taken up with enthusiasm by Governments and industry in the US where the impact of global warming is now being recognised," said Ian.

"The challenge ahead of us is to present our program to all of the 438,000 plumbers in America," added Ian.

GreenPlumbers USA is aiming to become the largest licensed green group in America as well as hosting the most acclaimed environmental training program.

Multiple GreenPlumbers training workshops have been scheduled all over America in preparation for Green Plumbers' "metro city challenge" in May and September; to have ten workshops in ten cities all in the one week.

"GreenPlumbers is pleased with the support it has received from the City and Union officials in each locality. The program fits simply into their green 'master' plans, paving the way for a successful growth path for GreenPlumbers in the USA," said Ian.

"We have been swamped with calls from plumbers wanting to know when we will be in their town next," added Ian.

"We've also already been approached by a homeowners association in Georgia looking for a Green Plumber to install new technology in 300 homes – this is the type of thing that's been happening incessantly since we've launched," said Ian.
